

One symbol. Ninety days of momentum.

ARC90 is a premium 90-day habit tracker — one goal, a daily system, visible momentum. The whole product orbits a single mark: a progress ring that fills as the days do. Three directions explored below; one chosen.

☐ Obsidian #07080C

☒ Cobalt #2F7DF6

☐ Teal #20C5A5

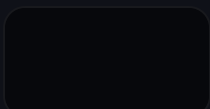

☐ Gold #F2B84B

"Build your next 90 days."

00 The system

cobalt → teal → gold · always clockwise

PALETTE & SIGNATURE GRADIENT

Obsidian

Surface

Cobalt

Teal

Gold

Paper

#07080C

#0F1118

#2F70F6

#20C5A5

#F2B84B

#F6F4EF

cobalt · day 0

gold · day 90 (the finish)

TYPE

A R C 9 0

Space Grotesk · 600 · 0.3em

Build your next 90 days

Display · 600

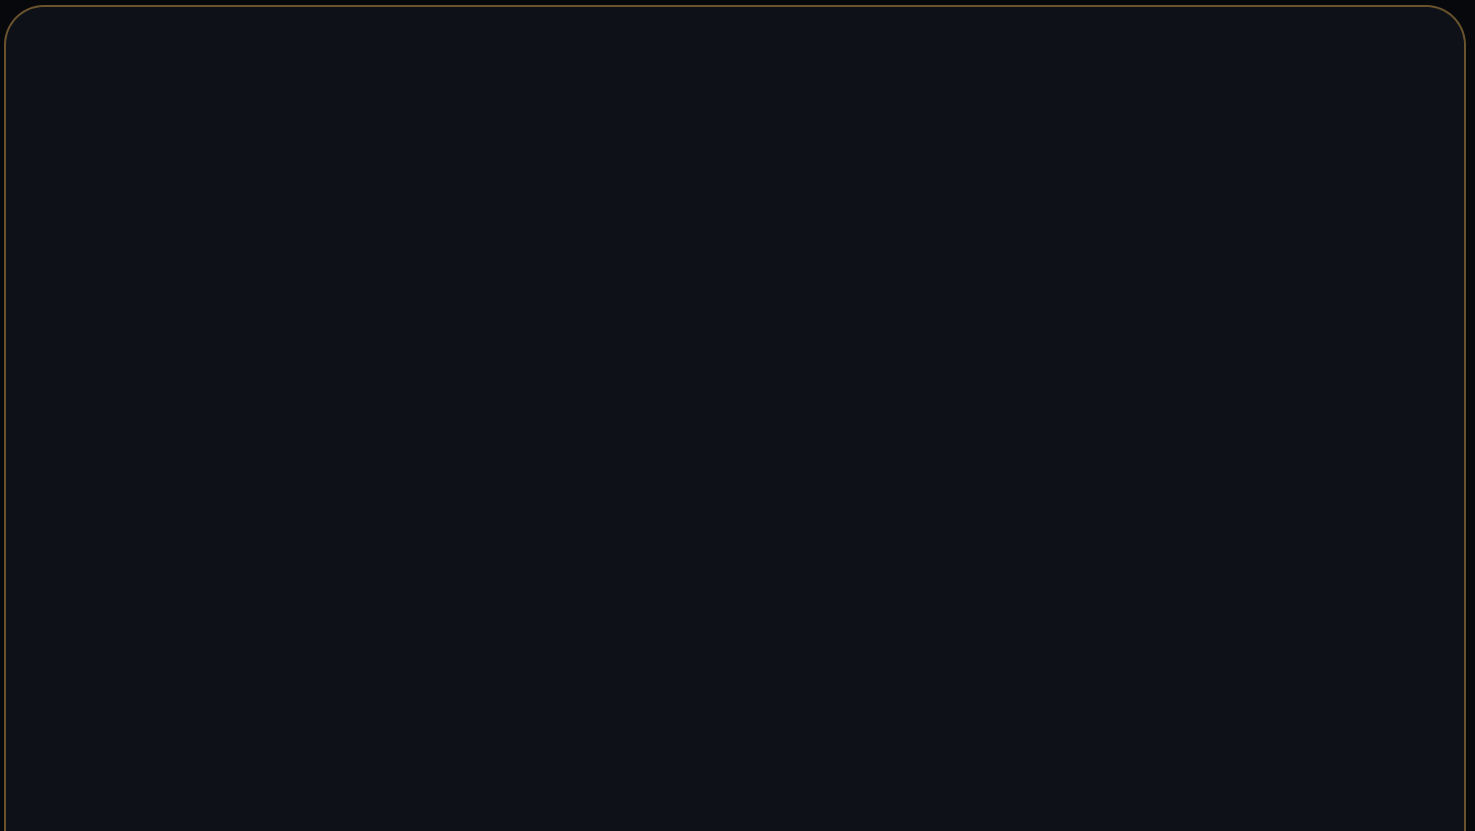

STROKE 8 · GAP 60° · TIP ø13

JetBrains Mono · specs

01

Three directions

one artboard each · obsidian ground

A · THE RING

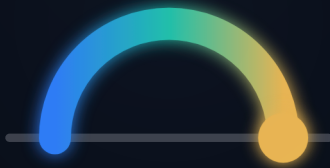

B · THE NEGATIVE 90

The Negative 90

Why it's right: the ring's tail curls into a 9 while the bowl holds the 0 — a quiet wink that rewards a second look. Clever, but it asks the viewer to read before they feel.

C · THE HORIZON

The Horizon

Why it's right: an arc of light breaking over a dark line — sunrise made of data, three strokes. Beautiful and calm, but it drifts from the ring the whole app is built on.

The verdict — The Ring wins.

A logo should feel inevitable, not invented. Directions B and C are smarter and prettier respectively, but the Ring is the product: the user already stares at this exact arc every day, watching the gold tip travel toward day 90. Adopting it as the mark makes the brand and the behaviour the same gesture — the most defensible identity ARC90 can own.

02

Delivery sheet — The Ring

master • app icon • lockup • monochrome • favicon

2.1

Master mark

primary · with glow

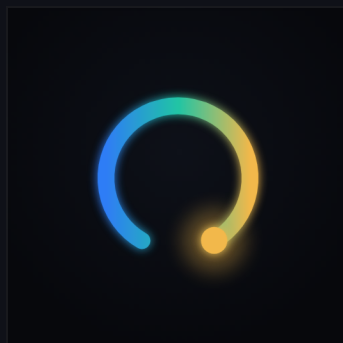

flat · single path, no bloom

Glow is the hero treatment for screens. The flat path is the workhorse — embroidery, foil, etch, anywhere bloom can't follow. 300° arc · 60° gap · round caps · gold tip

2.2

iOS app icon — 1024²

1024 master · square

after Apple corner mask

Mark at ~62% optical width, centred. Background carries a barely-there radial depth so it reads as obsidian, not flat black. Tip stays well inside the safe radius — survives the squircle. no text in icon

2.3

Horizontal lockup & clear space

clear space = 1× ring
radius (R)

ARC 90

Mark leads, wordmark follows, hairline divider holds the rhythm. Keep a clear zone of one ring-radius on every side — never let type or edge crowd inside the dashed box.

2.4

Monochrome

pure white on black

pure black on white

Single solid colour, one path, no gradient or glow — for fax-grade reproduction, stamps, and any one-ink context.

2.5

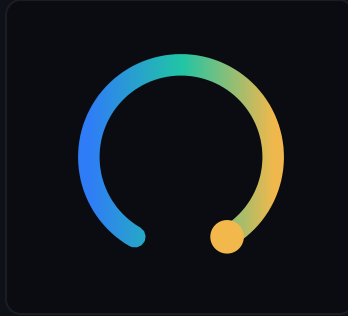

16px favicon test — does it still read?

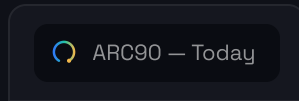

actual size · 16px

32px · retina

16px geometry · enlarged 8×

in a browser tab

At 16px the gradient compresses to a confident loop and the gold tip survives as the single point of focus.
verdict: legible — the gap + tip read even at favicon scale

ARC90 — Logo System

Build your next 90 days.